A YEAR OF BIG CROPS.

The Department of Agriculture is the one branch of the Government that never fails to supply interesting reading matter in its reports and bulletins. Secretary Wilson talks glibly of crops of corn and wheat and other things that runs up into the hundreds of millions of bushels; he tells how many ears it would take to haul these crops and how far these ears would reach if stretched out in a straight line. He always deals in superlatives, for he writes of the biggest industry—agriculture—in the biggest agricultural country on earth. The theme of his September crop report is particularly inspiring, for it appears to be almost certain that this is to be a record year for crops of several kinds.

The indicated yield of corn is the largest on record, being 2,716,918,000 bushels, which is greater by 2,000,000 bushels than the crop of the previous record year 1902. At prevailing prices the value of this corn crop is $1,195,443,920. We are also to have a bumper wheat crop. The indicated yield is 704,447,000 bushels which is only 45,000 bushels less than the record crop of 1901. At the current price of wheat at the May delivery in Chicago its value is $605,844,420. The oat crop is estimated to be worth $274,700,000 giving a total value of the three crops of $2,075,989,340, truly a staggering sum. It is three times the amount of the national bonded debt and twice the amount of the total public debt.

This is not all the story, or the minor crops are showing up proportionately as large. Barley shows a condition of 87.8 as against a ten year average of 83.4 rye a condition of 90.8 against a ten year average of 65.8; buckwheat a condition of 91.8 against a ten year average of 88; flax a condition of 94.2 against a ten years average of 88; potatoes a condition of 80.9 against a ten year average of 80.2.

Somebody with a knack for figures has estimated that the railroad must provide moving facilities for 1,500,000 carloads of grain, which is only the part of the crop not consumed on the farm. If all the grain should be marketed at once it would require a solid train of freight cars, with 37,500 locomotives, which would extend a distance of 12,286 miles, or half way around the earth. These cars and engines would make four continuous trains reaching from New York to San Francisco.

It is impossible to appreciate the magnitude of our agricultural products without resort to such comparisons, and even these give an inadequate idea of what it all means. When we begin to talk of billions of bushels the mind is lost in a mathematical maze, and figures themselves very little. Such a crop cannot fail to add materially to the already abundant prosperity of the country.—Exchange.
